

Optical tomography

John Schotland, University of Pennsylvania

Abstract

I will discuss recent work on the inverse scattering problem for diffuse light. Particular attention will be paid to computational issues related to the development of reconstruction algorithms for high-resolution imaging with large data sets. Numerical simulations and experiments in model systems will be described.